The public's estimate of a revolution doesn't depend on the number of people involved, but on the size of the headline over the story.

A Chance For A World

President Wilson's return to America bearing the world's greatest peace treaty, together with the covenant of the League of Nations, has started the battle that will decide whether the United States will make possible the most ambitious and only practicable attempt to keep the world at peace.

Although the Senate has debated and wrangled over the League of Nations for months these affairs are now considered merely as skirmishes and attempted ambushes. Then the opponents of the League were learnedly discussing a matter of which they had no official knowledge and little information of an unofficial nature. That situation permitted flights of fancy, such as the prediction that Uncle Sam would have to patrol the world and walk a beat in the Balkans or Kamchatka, or be governed by the black, brown and yellow races. Now these Republican nonpartisan enemies of the League have the official treaty before them and must discuss its provisions, thus being curtailed in the use of much lurid "patriotism" and fireworks of "pure Americanism."

The President has reported to the Senate briefly, telling of the high ideals that actuated the framers of the treaty, reserving his heavy ammunition for the real battles to come. Confident of eventual success he has challenged his opponents to summon him for first-hand knowledge of the "inside" doings at Paris, and, with the reluctance born of chagrin, they will do so.

The "getting under" method of complete surrender is now working nicely. Many of those anti-Wilson choristers known to history as the "round robins" are perfectly well aware that they will vote for the ratification of the League covenant eventually, even without amendment or reservation. So, paving the way for their submission to the mandate of the nation at large, they are preparing mattresses in the "shape" of "reservations" to break their fall on the day the final vote is taken. If each and every reservation fails the alibi of the hopeless fight is at hand and further consolation will be found in the probable announcement that "the business interests of the country demanded that peace should be formally declared."

Woodrow Wilson has proved his ability to arouse the people by tours of the country before this. He is the avowed crusader for the League of Nations, and when he couches his lance in rest for the combat, with his gift of idealism deftly melded with practicalities many a partisan enemy in the Peace Conference on his part public condemnation.

Bedford County Baseball League

A large and enthusiastic meeting was held at the First National Bank Building, Monday evening July 21, at eight P. M. to form a County Baseball League. All clubs will be asked to send three delegates to attend a meeting at Bedford July 28, at eight P. M. to elect a President and other officers for the League. All managers of Clubs are asked to report in person or letter, whether they will enter the League or not. Efforts will be made to start the first game, the first week in August. At the end of the season, a handsome pennant is to be awarded the victorious team of the County. It was suggested at the meeting that all Clubs pay their own transportation expenses and the Home Club to entertain the Visiting Club of twelve men to one meal.

Replogle Reunion

The sixth Annual Replogle Reunion will be held at Pine Hill Grove, Loysburg, Pa. on Wednesday July 30, 1919. Everybody come and enjoy themselves.

SMITH — NICELY

Her friends of Bedford and vicinity were agreeably surprised last Monday when it became known that Miss Helen Smith a resident of this place until a year ago, now of Ligonier and Mr. William H. Nicely, of Ligonier had been married. The couple motored to Cumberland Sunday afternoon and were married Monday morning, returning home by way of Bedford, Monday afternoon. Most hearty congratulations and best wishes are extended to these popular young people.

One Republican proposes a law to prevent the President from leaving the national capital. This is a partisan confession that a Democrat is to be President for some time to come.

ZONE TWO before The Senate

President Wilson was under no constitutional command and bound by no moral obligation to explain or defend before the Senate his course in the Peace Conference or his part in creating the League of Nations. Neither was there need as he told the Senators, to report to them what was attempted and done at Paris. Yet, he has given to the Senate and through the Senate to the people—an eloquent and convincing argument and justification for this country's continuance in an international partnership to preserve the peace that has been won after four years of sacrifices, starvation and slaughter.

If, as his critics contend, he said nothing new upon his subject, certainly all that he uttered was true. The business of keeping the peace belongs to every nation whose interests and safety will be threatened by war; that is, to every nation of the world. And in fulfilling this duty the nations can have hereafter no more success, acting severally, than they have had heretofore. They must be brought into concert; into a coalition that will pledge their moral and material resources to the common task of safeguarding themselves by protecting their neighbors.

The President was under no necessity of proving the obvious. The Senate knows that a League of Nations is imperative; that it is an inherent, inseparable part of the arrangement and maintenance of peace. There are those who are opposing the League in spite of their knowledge. They pretend to see in it obstacles and perils. It was doubtless to such that the President addressed at least one sentence of his address: "Statesmen might see difficulties but the people could see none and could brook no denial."

If Republican objectors and cavillers have not been enlightened by what President Wilson has said it is only because they have closed their eyes to the light. The people understand this language and share his hopes and approve his purposes. They demand the League of Nations. The Senate cannot deny them.

Red Cross Notes

The dinner given by the Bedford County Red Cross on the Public Square on the FOURTH of July, for all soldiers and sailors in the county was a very great success. Many expressions of pleasure and appreciation have been received from all over the country. A most bountiful dinner and supper was served to over twelve hundred men, provided through the generosity and loyal co-operation of every chairman and their committees in each district. We take this opportunity, in addition to the many letters written, to thank each and every person, who in any way assisted in making the dinner such a gratifying success. Splendid contributions of food and money were sent from every district, and much more would have been sent if it had been thought, it were necessary.

Garages Must Keep Records Of Cars Stored or Repaired

Proprietors of public garages throughout Pennsylvania have had their attention called to the provisions of the act approved by Governor Spruell June 30 requiring that records must be kept of all cars stored or left for repairs in every garage in the State. The provisions of this act are now in force. A special form has been prepared by the State Highway Department; and this must be used by the garage men. Records must be kept in ink or indelible pencil and shall be open to inspection of police or other authorities for one year from date. A stiff fine is provided for failure to maintain the record.

Police authorities declare that the keeping of these records will do much to end the stealing of automobiles. The record sheet contains spaces wherein a complete description of the car is kept—the make of machine, manufacturer's number, make of engine, number of engine, and other information. The sheet has been prepared so that it will be of great assistance to garage men in keeping "tabs" on their own business.

Highway Commissioner, Sadler in his letter to garage owners and operators set forth the entire section covering record keeping. It is section 8 of House Bill 395 (Act 284); as follows:

"That the proprietor of every public garage and motor vehicle repair shop shall cause a record to be kept after the manner to be prescribed by the State Highway Commissioner of the names of any and all persons owning or having charge of any motor vehicle stored, left for repair, or any other purpose, at any such public garage or motor vehicle repair shop, together with the make manufacturer's number, name of State of registration and the registration number of such motor vehicles. Such record shall be kept in ink or indelible pencil and shall be open to the inspection of police officers or other proper authorities. Such records shall be retained and be available for a period of one year after entry but not thereafter. He shall also immediately notify the local police authorities and State Highway Commissioner of any such motor vehicle whereon the manufacturer's number or mark has apparently been altered, obliterated or removed."

With the Highway Department receiving complete information concerning stolen cars, and garages keeping records of cars received or stored, it will be possible quickly to locate stolen automobiles if they remain in Pennsylvania.

Will They Thank Democrats

From Pennsylvania comes the news that contracts have been awarded for the construction of public highways to cost approximately $2,000,000. About 35,000 men will be employed in the work this year. Of the large total of money to be devoted to this useful undertaking nearly $1,000,000 will be contributed by the Federal Government under authority of an act passed by a Democratic Congress in 1916.

In this liberal assistance the Government is to afford to the people of Pennsylvania they will have a very substantial evidence of the constructive legislation which a Democratic Administration has brought into force and effect for the benefit of every State and all classes.

It has been the habit of some Republican newspapers and some Republican politicians of Pennsylvania to assert that an undue advantage has been given to the South in the laws and policies fostered by the present National Administration. The people of that State can now properly estimate the accuracy of these assertions while they are spending almost a million dollars and employing thousands of men under the inspiration and sanction of a Democratic statute of which they are thus far among the chief beneficiaries.

Republican Bureaus In Attacks Against League

Pamphlets containing Elihu Root's proposals for "reservations" in the covenant of the League of Nations, are scattered broadcast through the mails from the same office in New York from which a weekly publication is issued by the Republican National Committee.

Washington correspondents who received copies of the pamphlets observed that they emanated from the office which is the headquarters of a branch of the Republican National Committee's publicity department, and are convinced that they are being disseminated as part of the Republican propaganda against the League of Nations.

In Ohio the Republican organization also is flooding the state with literature attacking the League, and individual leaders are busy in the same work.

Correspondents and others who have received these pamphlets in Washington are commenting on the fact that while Chairman Will H. Hays is publicly declaring the League of Nations is not a partisan issue, the men, money and machinery of his party are being employed to conduct an attack on the covenant from ambush.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE OF M. P. CHURCH

Farewell Services For Missionary

Sunday July 27th will doubtless be a day long to be remembered by the people of St. John's Reformed church and their friends. The "Kingdom Missionary Society" recently organized in St. John's Church, has chosen among other things, to send its own missionary to Japan. The services next Sunday therefore will be farewell services for the young man who will sail in the early autumn as their representative. They have been most fortunate in having the privilege of supporting a young man who was born in Bedford and who was baptized at the altar in St. John's church—Mr. Arthur D. Smith. Mr. Smith's parents, Prof. and Mrs. C. V. Smith, are well and favorably known in Bedford and their many friends will be glad to know that they will accompany their son to Bedford for these farewell services.

The program of the day has been divided among three services. First at the hour for Sunday school 10 A. M. an address will be delivered by an uncle of Arthur Smith, The Rev. E. Ranson Deatrick, B. D. of Martinsburg, Pa. At eleven o'clock the sermon will be preached by another of Arthur's uncles, the Rev. W. W. Deatrick A. M. Sc. D. of Kutztown, Pa. At 7:30 P. M. the Foreign Mission Board of the Reformed church will be represented by the Rev. I. W. Hendricks D. D. of Chambersburg, Pa. who will deliver an address. Other addresses will be given by Mr. H. C. Heckerman, president of the Kingdom Missionary Society and by Mr. Arthur Smith the young missionary. There will be special music at all of the services and the friends of St. John's are cordially invited to share in the blessedness of the day.

Hoffman Hotel For Gettysburg

Lee F. Hoffman, Owner of Bedford and Ligonier Hosteries, to Locate Here.

PROJECT IS A CERTAINTY

Will Either Build or Take Over Gettysburg Property and Remodel Extensively. Was here with Convoy.

Gettysburg is to become a link in the chain of Hoffman Hotels which it is planned will extend all along the eastern part of the Lincoln Highway.

Lee F. Hoffman, owner of the Hoffman Hotels in Bedford and Ligonier, accompanied by George H. Hocking, came to the Lincoln Way Hotel on Tuesday afternoon and stated that he intended locating one of his hotelries here. Mr. Hoffman said:

"There is nothing indefinite nor uncertain about this proposition for we are going to locate in Gettysburg in the very near future. Already we have hotels in Bedford and Ligonier and it is our plan to place Hoffman Hotels in Gettysburg and East Liverpool, Ohio, so as to form a chain extending all along the Lincoln Highway. We do not intend to build in the large cities but to specialize on the smaller places.

"Our proposition is a stock concern," continued Mr. Hoffman, "but we are not asking for any money from Gettysburg people which I understand is the proposition in the new Heyn community hotel. As far as the Heyn Hotel is concerned I surely hope it is a success for it is an established fact that good hotels are an adjunct to any city and benefit not only themselves but their competitors."

Mr. Hoffman stated that he expected to establish his branch here before the end of the summer unless he decided to erect a hotel building in Gettysburg. He said that he had several cities in view but had not decided whether he would build here or take over some Gettysburg property and extensively remodel it.

"It is my plan to make the Hoffman Hotel a success in Gettysburg by conducting it along the same lines as my places in Bedford and Ligonier," Mr. Hoffman said. "We serve chicken and waffle dinners from 11:00 o'clock in the morning until 11:00 o'clock at night and in 1917 we sold more than 25,000 of these meals at the Bedford Hotel alone.

"Our success can be attributed largely to our extensive advertising," he continued, "as we have signboards dotting the Lincoln Highway for fifty miles east and west of Bedford. Our advertising methods are unique and our hotel has many unusual features which are bound to attract the attention of the tourists."

Mr. Hoffman is state representative of the Lincoln Highway Association and was in Gettysburg when the Motor Convoy passed through here last week. He accompanied the truck train to Pittsburgh and participated in the parade in that city. From the Gettysburg Times.

Auto Accident

Howard Weyant, of Claysburg, was run over by an automobile near East Freedom and killed on last Thursday. His skull was fractured. When he attempted to step from an auto he stepped out in the way of the auto which was passing. This is a frequent occurrence and should be a warning to all who step from an auto no matter where, to look for approaching cars.

Mail Aviator Loses Life

Charles Lamborn, a mail aviator, between Bellefonte and Cleveland, Ohio, lost his life last Saturday about 12 miles out of Bellefonte. His engine became dead and made a head end dash for the ground and lit in an open place in the side of the mountain. The machine was completely crushed and Lamborn lived but a few minutes after being found. The mail was taken on by another pilot.

Charles A. Ambler former state insurance commissioner and former speaker of the House of Representatives at Harrisburg has been requested by state officials to turn over surety bonds to protect the funds of the Pittsburgh Life and Trust Co., which is deposited in the North Penn Bank at Philadelphia which closed its doors within the last few days. Ambler is said to be a heavy borrower from the last wrecked bank.

The Handy Man

By RALPH HAMILTON

(Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union.)

Old Zeb Darrell stood at the curb, his pipe just filled, between his lips, an unlighted match in his hand. Its sulphured end was pressed down upon the edge of the iron-bound wheel of a stationary buzzy. As its driver started up the match flared, Zeb ignited the tobacco, uttered a sigh of comfort at having been spared all exertion by cleverly utilizing a convenient source of friction, and was hailed by a bystander, who smiled at the action which fully disclosed the indolent qualities of the old man.

"Looking for a handy man, Perkins," spoke Zeb. "You don't happen to know one, do you?"

"Why, there's Joe Lott, the carpenter, and his old helper, who started in for himself doing odd jobs," but Zeb shook his head dissentingly.

"Plutocrats, with their extravagant charges," he declared. "You see, the old place is pretty high going to rack and ruin. The porch is wobbly, half the front cornice is hanging loose and one edge of the kitchen lost its underpinning last night in the big blow and runs down hill like an ice slide. No, what I'm looking for is some handy fellow who will put in about two weeks tinkering around and mending up odds and ends for his keep, and maybe a little extra."

"Why, come to think of it, perhaps I can help you out," said Zeb's companion. "Unless he's through with his work up at the house, he's there now—a likely, honest seeming young fellow, who came along last evening and offered to fix up the fences for a bed and his meals."

"I'll go right down to your place and see him," said Zeb, eagerly. "If I was spry as I used to be I'd fix things up myself."

Ward Evans, for so the handy man called himself, had just finished one task and was ready for another. He listened to the story of his prospective employer, readily tracing his niggardliness, but finally engaging to put in his time at the Darrell place on a reasonable basis of compensation.

"I seem to have a natural knack for tinkering," he explained to Zeb. "You furnish the tools and material and I'll do the rest."

"I should think he had a knack, as he calls it," observed Nettie Darrell to her father a week later, and she glanced admiringly at the ramshackle house. Ward Evans had won her liking magically quick. In the first place he was good looking, and smiling, joking, saying pleasant, cheering things half of the time. He worked without ceasing all day long and had an eye for every loose shingle and flapping board. He practically rebuilt the house, the sheds, the walks, the fences. There was some loose plastering and he made it tight. Two grimy rooms he repapered, straightened up the porch, propped up the sunken kitchen and suggested that a coat of paint would make the old place look like new.

Evans had a flute he played evenings, and he was an expert in its musical possibilities. Regularly he gave his host and his daughter a concert. But it was in his narration of his varied career that he particularly interested them. He had been a circus rider, manager of a ranch, a political orator and superintendent of a logging camp. He loved to refer to this latter experience.

"It was there I met my best friend, Willis Drake," he told his interested auditors. "That was the brightest period of my life—except being with you people," he added, with a glance at Nettie, who flushed slightly, while her father looked pleased at the compliment. "Ah, Willis Drake! a man with a heart of gold—the life of the camp. He left at the end of the season to go back to his father, a wealthy Southerner. He had left home to become a wanderer. I got a letter from him a month ago, and what do you think? His father had died, leaving him a great fortune, and as soon as he settles the estate he's coming to find me, and he insists that we'll be like brothers for the rest of our lives."

Evans received another letter from his friend a week later. The letter was coming after him at once. By this time Ward had become friendly and familiar with the Darrells. He had completed the work he had agreed to do, but he lingered on, and they were glad to have him about, and Ward was gladder still to bask in the sunshine of Nettie's winning smile.

Then his friend arrived and bore him to the hotel. A handsome, dapper-looking fellow, Drake took a liking to Zeb, and Nettie, and Ward. "You're a better man than I am," he said to Zeb. "I don't like to see a man like you go to bed."

"Why, you amaze me!" began Ward. "Are you blind? Who but yourself, my worthy friend? And because I like you, too, I'm glad of it," and humble, self-sacrificing Ward Evans dared to speak his love at last.

Thursday

SUBURBAN DAY

EVERY Thursday you get a truly remarkable chance to buy at a saving, if you shop in Altoona. That is the day Altoona merchants set aside as Suburban Day. It is a day planned to repay you for your trip to Altoona to shop.

SUBURBAN DAY is fast gaining the favor of out-of-town shoppers. In your own community you have many aggressive merchants who stand ready to serve you. But there are, of course, many things you cannot buy to the same advantage in your town.

Hence Suburban Day.

Make a note of it—every Thursday is Suburban Day. There are five this month—five "red letter" days! Watch the Altoona papers on Wednesday and Thursday for attractive bargain offerings.

To afford their store organizations summer half-holidays, A. B. A. merchants are closed after 12.30 P. M. Fridays during July and August.

Diseases Spread by Wars.

In the nineteenth century, during the Russo-Turkish wars, typhus spread from Turkey up through Wallachia into Austria. The French suffered from it during the Crimean conflict. In the Franco-Prussian war, the French, being poorly clothed and fed, again suffered. The Balkan war seems to have been notable more for cholera, a summer disease, than typhus, which flourishes best in winter.

Gave Value to Rubber.

Vulcanized rubber—and all rubber articles are now vulcanized—was first made at Woburn, Mass., by Charles Goodyear about 1844. He obtained his first patent in that year, after he had spent years in experimenting and had reduced his family to extreme poverty. Before 1844 rubber had been used for various purposes as a soft, sticky gum, but was of comparatively little value.

THE TWO DOGS.

"Two dogs were sitting on a city street in front of a house with high steps," said Daddy.

"It's a pleasant evening, bow, wow," said Tag.

"It's a mighty pleasant one," said Tango, and then he added politely as he wagged his tail: "Bow, wow, it's nice to see you."

"What do you do most of the time?" asked Tag. "Do you have fun?"

"Some children walked by just at this moment and they saw Tag and Tango sitting close by each other."

"They look as though they were having a fine old talk," said one of the children.

"Yes," said another, "they are talking just as people would. Aren't they cunning? I do love fox terriers."

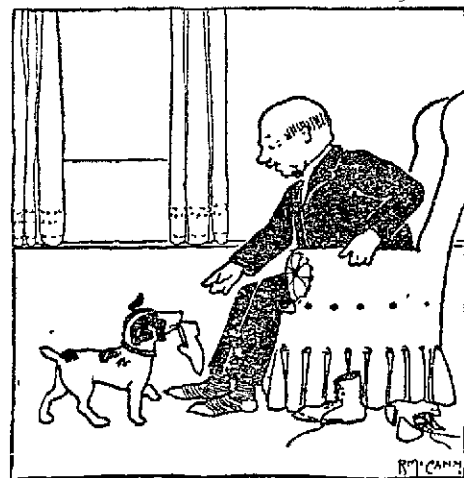

"For Tag and Tango were fox terriers."

"I do believe," said one of the other children, "that they are talking about us as we pass, and picking out the one they like best and just having a fine old talk about everything and everyone they see."

"The two dogs were sitting so close together that they most certainly did look as though they were telling each other all sorts of secrets and having a most wonderful talk."

"Children are nice, bow, wow," said Tag, as the children went by.

"I think they're gorgeous," said Tango, "but I do hate to see children tease dogs. Then the dogs are apt to get angry and cross and people will think dogs aren't nice creatures."

"I don't like real teasing anyway," said Tag. "It is always mean. Of course when people tease each other just in fun and don't try to be mean it is all right, but usually teasing is very unkind."

"And it's not fair, for the creature who is teasing doesn't think whether he or she is hurting some one's feelings or not."

"Yes, bow, wow, teasing is apt to be very mean and unfair. And many a time I've seen such a nice child crying because her feelings were hurt. And I've seen a dog's eyes look pathetic because some one has been teasing."

"But do let's talk about something more pleasant than teasing."

"Yes, let's," said Tango.

"It seems to me," said Tag, "that I asked you a question a little while ago, or maybe I asked two questions. Then we got talking about teasing and forgot about the questions. What were they? Do you remember? If you don't, I'll try to think them up again."

"I remember them," said Tango.

"What were they?" asked Tag.

"You asked me if I had fun, and what I did most of the time," said Tango.

"That's true, so I did. You have a fine memory, Tango. Well, pray answer the questions."

"Yes, my master says I've a good memory," said Tango proudly. "Well, I do have lots of fun. I play and I try to be useful and I sleep and I eat."

"Every night when my master comes home from business I bring him his pipe, his bag of tobacco and his slippers. Of course I wait until he has had his dinner and is sitting in his big chair."

"He puts me on the head and says: 'Good old boy,' and that is enough of a reward for me, though he usually has a dog biscuit or some extra sort of a treat. He says I give him a treat and so he likes to give me one. Isn't he a fine master?"

"Tag nodded, wagged his tail, and said: 'Do go on.'"

"In the morning," said Tango, "I take his collar and tie. He keeps them in a box on a low shelf in his wardrobe. I push open the door with my nose, then I get off the top of the box, and very carefully I lift out a collar. I have to be careful so it will be sure to be clean for my master."

"And then I pick out a nice tie for him. I pull it down from the tie rack, and I give him a different one for the different days. These are my times for helping the master and the rest of the time I play, eat and sleep."

"Isn't that interesting?" said Tag, "for I live just about the same sort of a life."

What Would Follow.

Little Hazel was saying her prayers before retiring and, having got as far as "If I should die before I wake," she hesitated.

"Well, what's next?" asked her mother.

"Why," replied Hazel, "I suppose a funeral would be the next thing."

LESSON FOR JULY 27

CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP.

LESSON TEXT—Phil. 4:10-20.

GOLDEN TEXT—If we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin.—John 1:7.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Psalms 133:1-3; Mal. 3:16; John 17:20, 21; I Cor. 12:13; Romans 12:15, 16; I John 4:7-13.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Loving Jesus and one another (Acts 12:1-17; John 13:34).

JUNIOR TOPIC—Keeping company with God's people (Acts 2:37-47).

INTERMEDIATE TOPIC—Our Christian friendships (John 15:12-15).

SENIOR AND ADULT TOPIC—Basis and benefits of Christian fellowship.

The Epistle to the Philippians furnishes us with a beautiful example of fellowship between Paul and the church at Philippi. This church on several occasions sent Paul money for his support. The particular ministry of this sort at the hands of Epaphroditus while Paul was a prisoner at Rome was the occasion for this epistle. His words of thanksgiving for this gift is the text of our lesson.

I. Paul's Expression of Appreciation (4:10).

The Philippians had on several occasions expressed their sympathy and love for Paul by their gifts, but considerable time had elapsed since any gifts had reached him. When their care for him again flourished he was made to greatly rejoice. He recognized that the Lord was ministering to him through these people, therefore he rejoiced in the Lord. This was a very tactful way of saying "I thank you." This gift was gladly received because he was in need and also because it assured him that his old friends still loved him.

II. Paul's Manly Independence (vv. 11-18).

Though sincerely appreciating the gift, he would have them know:

1. He was independent of circumstances (v. 11). Through discipline of the Lord he had learned to be content with his lot. He knew that all things work together for good (Rom. 8:28), so whatever he was experiencing at the moment was from the hand of the loving Father. Happy, indeed, is the man who has learned this secret. Paul was willing to take poverty or prosperity, whatever came.

2. Willing to take what God sent (v. 12). If it be prosperity, he would rejoice and praise God; if it be adversity, he would patiently suffer it, knowing that it was permitted by the Heavenly Father because it was needful for his best interests. This is a fine example of self-mastery. If a thing desired was not forthcoming he would not allow his heart to desire it.

3. His faith was in Christ (v. 13). The soul-poise which Paul possessed was not of himself, but because Christ indwelt him. Such composure is only possible as Christ lives in and becomes the dynamic of one's life. When the life is thus surcharged with the energy of Christ, he is absolutely independent of circumstances. Such poise is possible to all who will unreservedly yield themselves to God.

III. The Fellowship of Paul and the Philippians (vv. 14-19).

1. The gift of this church to Paul is an outstanding example of Christian sympathy (vv. 14-16). No other church had remembered Paul at all in his great need, but this one rendered pecuniary aid again and again, affording a fine example of mutual love between a minister and the people supporting him.

2. The gift a spiritual blessing to the church (v. 17). Paul was pleased with their gift not primarily for its value to him, but because of the blessing which the people derived from giving it. It was fruit which abounded to their account. "It is more blessed to give than to receive" (Acts 20:35).

3. Their gift was an acceptable act of worship—"an odor of a sweet smell, well-pleasing to God" (v. 18). True Christian giving is an act of worship to God.

4. Their gift would be rewarded by the Heavenly Father (v. 19). True Christian giving is not on the basis of prudence, but by faith in the living God who will make recompense according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus.

Within God's Keeping.

He that takes himself out of God's hands into his own by and by will not know what to do with himself.—Benjamin Whichcote.

Face of the Master.

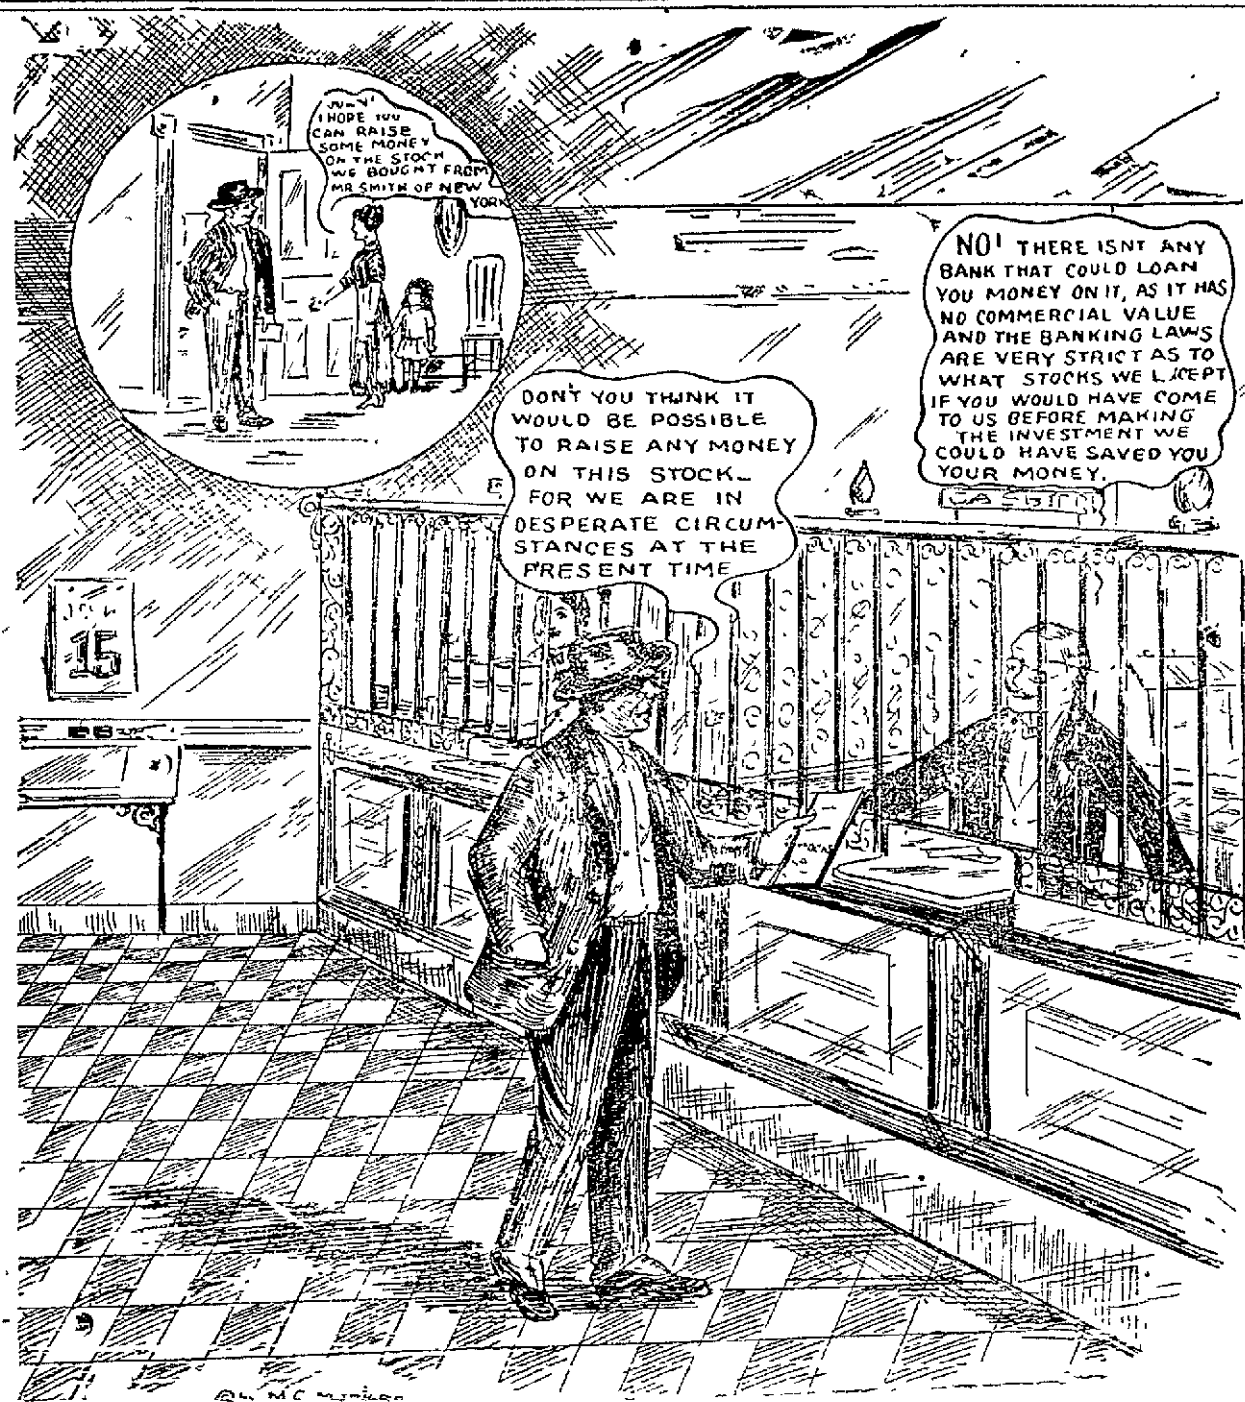

"Be sure that whenever you make an unselfish effort to comfort another, you will get a glimpse of the face of the Master."

Around the Throne.

Precious to themselves, O Lord, is the death of thy saints, which takes off the dusty cover that hides their brightness; which shapes and polishes them to a beautiful luster, and sets them as stars round about thy throne.—John Austin.

Fills Us With Wonder.

God lives above us, through the stars and the heavens—the above and the beyond, which we cannot penetrate nor fully understand. The mysteriousness of him fills us with wonder.

Let Your Reliable Home Banker Use The Acid Test

The biggest blessing of any community is its bank and the conservative men at their heads. The bank and its trained bankers are the guardians of your financial existence and welfare, aiming at all times toward security. Can you imagine the man who through sickness or misfortune, is compelled to seek financial relief. In health he has fallen prey to one of the many disposers of valueless stocks or bonds. When misfortune comes he seeks the aid of his home bank, only to learn too late that he has been victimized of his earnings whereas a few minutes consultation with the banker would have made him secure for all time to come had he sought and accepted his advice.

MORAL:—The day of gold brick will never pass; the strength of the bank will never fail.

Yes! He bought that away from here and what has he gained by it? He thought it a bargain but they double up on him.

LEAGUE OR WAR DECLARES FORD

MANUFACTURER MAKES IT
CLEAR HE BELIEVES COVEN-ANT IS GREAT STEP.

DECLARES "WAR IS MURDER"

Whirlwind of Questions Fall to Shake
Composure of Man Who Sues for Million Because He Was Called "Anarchist"

Mr. Clemens, Mich.—The high idealism of Henry Ford has freshened the proceedings of the Ford-Tribune libel case and has brought into the wearisome arguments of counsel and the dull repetition of cross-examinations, a new quality.

For a week the man who has been described as everything from an "anarchist" to the greatest patriot of his day, has been on the stand facing a merciless fire of questions.

During the reading of an article written by John Reed on Henry Ford, and published in the Metropolitan Magazine, the audience in the court chamber violated all precedent by breaking into applause and Mr. Ford, visibly embarrassed, raised his hand in protest.

Tribune counsel had endeavored to quote paragraphs from the Reed article but had been compelled, by objection of Ford attorneys, to introduce the interview in its entirety. In the main it was highly complimentary to Mr. Ford.

"Make Farmer Independent."

"What I want to do," Mr. Ford was quoted as saying, "is to make the farmer as independent as I am; independent of the banks, independent of the trusts, independent of the railroads."

The audience, many of them from the surrounding farms of this community, showed visible evidence of its appreciation of that ideal.

Twice Mr. Ford, wearying of the questions having to do with his knowledge of history, said "Oh, I'll admit that I'm an ignorant idealist if you wish."

"What is an idealist?" queried Tribune counsel.

The innate goodness of the man lighted up his kindly eyes with a new light, as he leaned forward and answered slowly, "I think an idealist is one who tries to make people happy and prosperous. I think I do that a little."

Quiet, unassuming, courteous and patient, Henry Ford made a deep impression on the audience. Not once did he lose his temper under the heckling of opposing attorneys, even when their questions verged on the edge of insult. But when the examination touched on subjects which are close to his heart, the League of Nations, war and the happiness and prosperity of Humanity, counsel found him eagerly alert.

A League of Nations, or preparedness up to the hilt.

That is the way he sees the situation today. "We must either," he said, "accept the covenant of peace or democracy must arm and stand guard forever at the threshold of liberty."

"War is Murder."

He hammered that fact home and with it he always added, "War is murder."

"I was a murderer," he said, "I was a helper of murder. When the crisis came we all took a hand. But it is all the same. War is murder."

"What do you mean by murder?"

"I mean killing people."

"Killing people to protect the interests of the people?"

"Killing anybody or anything. I don't know what else war is. War is murder. There is a far better way."

"What is the better way?"

"Why, to educate people. To teach them to think for themselves."

A long examination was conducted which sought to quiz Mr. Ford concerning his views on history, based on a remark which he once made that "I wouldn't give five cents for all the history ever written."

"I don't think much more of it now than I did then," testified Mr. Ford.

"The war showed us that history didn't last a week. All the things they told us would happen didn't happen. They went ahead, knowing what war meant, and made the same mistakes all over again. The history we write today is the thing that counts. I'm not interested in yesterday."

The Flag of Nations.

The much discussed flag of a League of Nations, which it has been stated Mr. Ford was having made in his factory before the United States entered the war, was brought into court. The testimony developed the fact that Mr. Ford did not originate the design of the flag and had never seen the banner itself. He saw a small drawing of it once in St. Paul's Cathedral, Detroit, he said, but had never heard of it again and knew nothing about it.

He denied emphatically that he ever said he would raise this flag above the Stars and Stripes, and said the statement that he revered this banner above the flag of his country was "A terrible thing to say about an American."

THIS MINISTER CLOSE.

TO HUMAN HEARTS

The Rev. A. P. Bissell, rector of St. Stephens Episcopal church of Steubenville, O., comes very close to the hearts of people in his declaration for wholesome recreation, and he makes public declaration of it. On February 20, he addressed the Chamber of Commerce of Steubenville in support of a recreation program that included Sunday movies.

He declared that the wage earners have as much right to such Sabbath day amusements as the more fortunate have to their joy rides, clubs and golf. "We must provide some substitute for the saloon and the brothel which we are driving out, and we will have to get away from the idea of some reformers that husky men of labor can be attracted and kept contented with such amusements as 'puss in the corner' and 'drop the handkerchief,' he declared. He added that in his opinion there would be nothing unholy about carefully regulated Sunday moving pictures.

They Supported Slavery.

Ministers of the same denominations which now demand that the only places of entertainment left open on Sunday be the churches, formerly claimed that slavery was a divine institution. And there are still many ministers of these same denominations who insist that kings rule by divine right.

What Is Reverence?

Are not actual scenes from the Holy Land, preserving much of the characteristics of the country when it was "Holy Land," fully as reverent and educational as the theories of that ancient country and its Revered Messenger, delivered by ministers, each educated and made to see Christ in a different manner?

Immoral Any Day.

If moving pictures are immoral, it is a question for the Board of Censors. Sunday movies have nothing to do with it. If pictures are immoral on Sunday they are immoral on Monday and every other day.

Devoid of Prejudice.

The moving picture theater is the most democratic of American institutions. Men of all beliefs meet there on common ground. Prejudices are left behind.

GOVERNMENT ADVISES WHEAT GROWERS

How to Avoid Hessian Fly.

"It should be borne in mind that the most practical and effective methods of controlling the Hessian fly are identical with the best methods of producing the maximum yields of wheat. It does not seem to occur to the average farmer that it is possible for him to fight the Hessian fly by the process of good farming, involving thorough cultivation, good seed, and a rotation of crops. It has been said, and with truthfulness, that outbreaks of this pest are more often the result of poor farming than otherwise. The most serious objection to the most practical and effective method that can be employed to control this pest in the field—namely, late sowing—is that there is danger of so delaying the growth of the plants that they do not become sufficiently advanced to enable them to withstand the winter. The farmer is thus placed, as it were, between Scylla and Charybdis, and must risk the ravages of the Hessian fly on the one hand or the freezes of winter on the other.

"Much of the delay in the growth of late-sown plants in the fall can be eliminated by paying close attention to the preparation of the soil and to the quality of the seed. A thoroughly vigorous wheat plant will not only withstand a slight attack of the Hessian fly but it frequently occurs that such a light attack is rather beneficial than otherwise, for the reason that the killing of the first shoot that is thrown up from the kernel forces the plant to tiller, and in rich soil the result is to produce more grain; but if the soil lacks fertility and has been poorly prepared, this slight attack that vigorous plants overcome is fatal to weak plants, because of the badly nourished condition of the plants. The best advice that can be given is to begin the preparation of the field in the fall precisely as though it was expected to sow at a very early date, but instead of sowing use the disk harrow and the roller, even after it appears to be a waste of labor to till the field further.

"When a finely pulverized, compact seedbed has been secured, the seed should be selected, and this should be done with the point in view that unnaturally shriveled or otherwise imperfect kernels cannot produce healthy wheat plants. When the kernel sprouts it at once sends fibrous roots down into the soil from which to draw nourishment for the young plant, and if little or no nourishment is secured the wheat plants are put into somewhat the condition of stunted calves, pigs or other farm animals which are underfed.

"Wheat plants cannot secure prompt and ample nourishment if the roots must make their way about among clods due to poor preparation of the soil, or in soil that lacks in fertility. The farmer, then, should begin the preparation of his soil with the object of delaying the sowing of the wheat and afterwards of pushing the growth of the plant to the utmost until the beginning of the cold weather. There are farmers who grow wheat continuously year after year but who rarely lose a crop on account of Hessian fly attacks, and even more rarely does the pest originate in their own fields."—Circular 51, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

FERTILIZE LIBERALLY

Says Professor Agee.

"I am convinced that the average individual loses his chance for the largest net income from land by failure to fertilize liberally. When one lacks capital it is perhaps a serious matter to run up a big bill for fertilizers, but when labor and seeds are to be risked it is poor business not to have enough plant food to make a good crop. Poor land does not get one anywhere—at least in the direction he wants to travel."—Alva Agee, in National Stockman and Farmer.

ENGLAND MUST INCREASE WHEAT YIELDS

According to the editor of the United States Experiment Station Record, Director Russell of the Rothamstead (England) experiment station says that "the English farmer's task in the future will be to increase his yield." But he further states: "We must strengthen the straw, improve the tillering, regulate to some extent the development of grain and control the pests. Until these are all solved we cannot hope to get much further with increased wheat yields."

The interesting part of this is that so good an authority sees the necessity of still further increasing the English yields of wheat per acre. In this country, although we produce less than one-half the English yields per acre, some of our would-be agricultural economists tell us that we have solved our production problems, have even already given too much attention to production. So long as American farmers produce only about 14 bushels of wheat per acre while England produces for an average of ten years 32.8 bushels of wheat per acre, it is ridiculous to suppose that, while in competition with English farmers, we have no further production problems calling for solution. The great American agricultural problem is greater soil fertility and greater yields per acre.

Delicate Mechanism

Despite its scope Swift & Company is a business of infinite details, requiring infinite attention.

Experienced men must know livestock buying with a knowledge of weight, price, the amount and quality of meat the live animals will yield.

Each manufacturing operation must be done with expert skill and scientific precision. A highly perishable product must be handled with speed and care to avoid loss.

Chemists, engineers, accountants, and other specialists are required to take care of our intricate problems.

Alert wisdom and judgment must be used in getting stocks of goods into the open channels of demand through our four hundred branch houses. Branch house organizations must show activity and energy to sell at the market in the face of acute competition from other large packers, and hundreds of small ones.

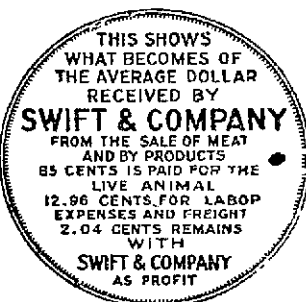

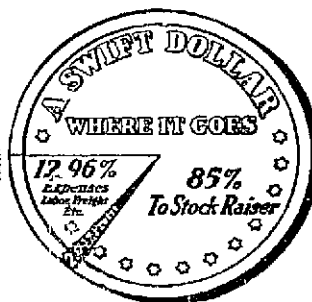

All these requirements of intelligence, loyalty, devotion to the task, are met in the personnel of Swift & Company. Yet the profit is only a fraction of a cent per pound with costs at minimum.

How can the workings of this delicate human mechanism be improved upon?

Do you believe that Government direction would add to our efficiency or improve the service rendered the producer and consumer?

Pennsylvania in the Hall of States

Hundreds of Pennsylvania soldiers, wounded or ill, lying in the big Army hospitals of New York, receive their first hint of home from letters and calls from volunteer women workers at the Pennsylvania desk at the Hall of States at 27 West 25th Street in that City. Backed only by the Daughters of Pennsylvania in New York, the women are trying to do as well as Pennsylvanians who reach New York, as other states are doing for their home-coming sons, despite the fact that other states have large appropriations. Kansas is spending $35,000 to welcome her boys, Massachusetts $50,000, and other states smaller amounts. The Pennsylvania women say they have received no financial aid from the state, even toward the clerical work of writing to two or three hundred Pennsylvanians in the hospitals here.

These letters, sent out under a plan devised by the War Camp Community Service, are, as a rule, the first words from home-folks to reach the injured boys after they arrive on the transports. The women invite those lads who can to visit them at the Hall of States and, in the cases of the severely wounded, they call on the men in the wards, carrying cheer, home papers, and flowers or fruit.

All the hospitality activity for the various states centers at the Hall of States, which the War Camp Community Service has established close to the Victory Arch. Here "Buddies" meet, and home-folks welcome the boys back from the trenches. How the eyes of the home-sick lads do shine when they sight women from the home state and how they do rush for the home papers. Some of them need more practical aid, some are "blue," some need a job back home, some want to trace lost families. To all of these the Pennsylvania women give help. Sometimes they take a lad to dinner and to the theatre, sometimes they find the lost loved ones. For those who need jobs the War Camp Community Service maintains at the Hall of States a nation-wide employment bureau. Its manager, Ralph M. MacDonald, canvasses Pennsylvania and other states for positions.

Mrs. Walter S. Conly, from Ogontz, is chairman of the Pennsylvania committee. She is helped by Mrs. Lillian Alexander, vice-chairman, from Wilkes-Barre; Mrs. Mildred Meade Mills, from Meadville; Mrs. Homer Lee, from Glen Riddle; Mrs. John J. Fields, from Dingman's Ferry; Mrs. James R. Turner, from Jenkintown and Mrs. Frederick R. Holsington from Philadelphia, and Mrs. William B. Cunes, from Reading. Mrs. Conly has written to Governor Sprout, asking for an appropriation or an allowance for clerk hire.

PENNSYLVANIA IS TOO TIGHT

Travelling Men Refuse To Stay In Cities of Keystone State Over Sunday and Skip Out to Those of Neighboring States Because of Stringent Sunday Laws

"I'm a traveling man. That's my business, and if I do say it, I'm a pretty good one. If I wasn't my firm wouldn't pay me the salary it does." He was a big fine specimen of manhood with a clear eye and ruddy cheeks that bespoke the care he took of himself, full of vigor and "on his toes" every minute. He surely looked a "live wire" and a worthy representative of the widely known firm for which he traveled. He repeated that he was a traveling man, as he leaned against the cigar counter of a hotel in the metropolis of the western part of Pennsylvania and lighted a cigar with an enticing aroma. "But," he continued, "I'm shaking the dust of your burg off my feet tonight. Tomorrow's Sunday and it's a gloomy prospect here for a member of the Homeless 26. Why I can jump on a train here this evening and wake up in the morning in Cleveland or Cincinnati, where I can do something besides read, and sit around in a lonesome hotel twirling my thumbs and hating everybody and everything, waiting for Monday so I can get to work again. No, sir, no Pennsylvania for me on Sunday."

"You know it certainly is a shame for a city of this size to be so strict on your tight Sunday. Why every city west of here is a pleasanter place to spend Sunday in than here. What harm would there be if there was a movie to go to, or a good concert to be heard? And do you know how many thousands of dollars are taken away from the state just because of that 'tight Sunday'? I know a bunch of traveling men, that hustle to get as much done as they can on Saturday just to get out of the city so they won't have to spend Sunday in it. They'll do just what I'm going to do, and if they have to they'll skip back here on Monday morning."

"I think it's a big mistake, and I wonder your business men don't see it. Why the dollars and cents proposition alone ought to wake them up. These old blue laws that you say prevent any such thing as Sunday evening entertainment were all right maybe in the old colonial days but isn't Pennsylvania grown any since then. You used to go to church then with a blunder bus over your shoulder, but do you do it now?"

"If the old blue laws keep the Sabbath from being desecrated openly somebody is being cheated, for who knows how many poker games there are going on all around your town and fellows losing money that can't afford it? And look at the booze hoisting and speakeasies that we know about, but that will soon be over. I tell you you can't legislate religion into people, and people these days think for themselves more than ever before, and they're beginning to see that there is something sacred in wholesale recreation, and that to remain in the house all day, or go to church for an hour or so, and wear a sanctimonious face, is not religion neither is it the proper observance of the Sabbath."

"But look here Mr. Traveling Man granted all you say is true, and I'm inclined to agree with you, we are thinking for ourselves as you say and so are our state officials. We have seen it from different angles however. We didn't get your point of view so much as we did realize our duty to the foreign-born population that has come among us and made his home here. He is used to more freedom on the Sabbath than we have heretofore allowed him and

IMPROVE QUALITY OF STOCK

Difference in Expense of Keeping Scrubs and Good Producers is Not Very Large.

Better breeding stock must be kept if we are to improve the quality of our farm animals. There is much difference in the price of a fine draft horse as compared to a scrub pony; the value of the five-gallon cow when compared to an animal that produces but one gallon is striking, and yet the difference in the cost of keeping the scrubs and the good producers is not great.

PIGS FOR BREEDING STOCKS

Animals Should Be Kept Separately and Fed Differently Than Those for Fattening.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Animals which are to be kept for breeding purposes should be separated from the fattening stock soon after weaning. Only such gilts as show exceptional type and conformation should be chosen to replace or augment the sows in the herd. No male animals should be saved entire unless the breeder is growing purebred registered swine. When they are so saved their care and feeding is similar to that of the gilts.

Breeding stock must not be pampered. This does not mean to neglect them, but it is not best to house them as carefully or feed them as heavily as the fattening stock. Sows should be trained to resist the weather and to utilize forage crops, that they may have vitality and the ability to eat cheap feeds. Pasture should be furnished in abundance to these young gilts, particularly such crops as the legumes. It is best to feed some grain to the breeding stock to keep them growing nicely, but they must never be pushed, for the whole object in their feeding is to make them stretch out and develop bone and muscle in place of fat. A grain ration containing more protein than is fed to fattening stock is very good for breeding animals, an ideal ration being similar to the ones previously given as weaning rations. Two pounds for each 100 pounds live weight is about the right amount to feed. The gilts are kept on the same feed until time to breed for the first litter, after which they are maintained in much the same fashion as the old sows during pregnancy, except that they are fed a heavier ration. The gilt at this time must not only grow the unborn litter but must be furnished nutriment to continue her own growth.

Dr. Mott Receives D. S. Medal

Dr. John R. Mott recently was decorated with the Distinguished Service Medal by Secretary of War Baker for "especially meritorious and conspicuous service" and "as a tribute to the work of the Y. M. C. A. men and women overseas, and in home training camps during the war." Dr. Mott is General Secretary of the National War Work Council and the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A., and as such he has been the active head of the war work of the organization. Secretary Baker, in presenting the order on behalf of General Peyton C. March, Chief of Staff, thanked Dr. Mott for his personal zeal in war work and his able direction of the great war service organization of the Y. M. C. A.

"Why I Put Up With Rats for Years," Writes N. Windson, Farmer.

"Years ago I bought some rat poison which nearly killed our fine watchdog. It so scared us that we suffered a long time with rats until my neighbor told me about RAT-SNAP. That's the sure rat killer and a safe one." Three sizes, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold by Metzgar Hardware Co.

"It Must Have Been Dead at Least 6 Months But Didn't Smell."

"Saw a big rat in our cellar last Fall." Writes Mrs. Joanny, "and bought a 25c cake of RAT-SNAP, broke it up into small pieces. Last week while moving we came across the dead rat. Must have been dead six months, didn't smell. RAT-SNAP is wonderful." Three sizes, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold by Metzgar Hardware Co.

The Heel of Achilles in Tires

The weak spot in a tire is where tread stops and sidewall begins.

On any road but smooth, flat pavement, the spears of the road—stones and broken rock—are constantly jabbing at this Heel of Achilles. And the sides of wagon tracks, when you ride ruts, grind wickedly at vulnerable flanks.

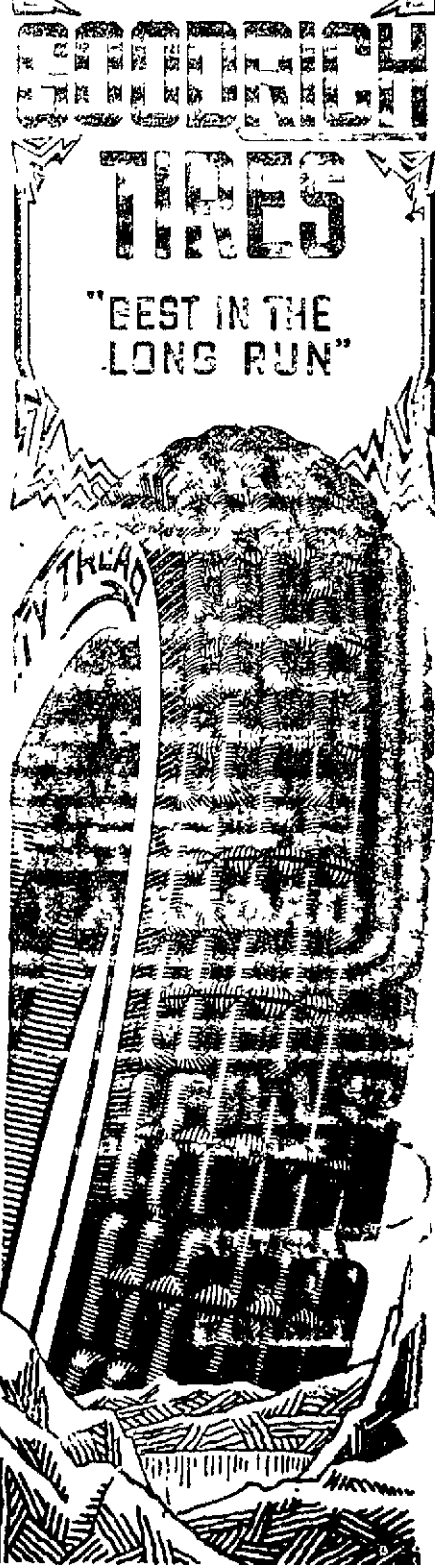

Your eyesight tells you that. Now look at the SAFETY TREAD of Goodrich Tires. See how it spreads the Goodrich interlocking safety bars beyond the ball of the tire, and lays extra tread rubber along the sidewall.

Notice further, how the extrawide tread carries on up the sides of the tire, extending beneath the sidestrips.

Thus an extra thickness of tread, it is said, fortifies Goodrich Tires at the Heel of Achilles.

Remember, that is one of the reasons why Goodrich Tires lead in mileage over all roads, rough or smooth.

Good Printing

THE kind of printing that pays dividends is the kind you should have. Pale, muddy, poorly arranged printed matter is worse than none. The quality of your business is often judged by the quality of your stationery—inferior printing gives an impression of cheapness that is hard to overcome, while good printing carries with it a desirable suggestion of quality.

We produce only Quality Printing. Whether you want an inexpensive handbill or a letterhead in colors, if you order it from us you will be sure of getting good work. We have the equipment and the "know how" that enables us to get out really good printing—printing that impresses people with the good taste of its users. That is the only kind of printing that

FROM CHERRY-BLOSSOM LAND

The Japanese Give Good Example

It is a proverb of Cherry Blossom Land that beauty of face and figure depend on womanly health.

What is it that makes our American women often pale, sallow-faced, with dark circles under the eyes, and very often old at forty-five when they should be in their prime?

Women suffer in girlhood from back-ache, spine-ache and headaches, followed by irregularities and as a result diseases of the womanly organs are more common than any one but a physician in active practice could suppose.

After long experience in the treatment of women's diseases, Dr. Pierce evolved a vegetable tonic and corrective which he called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This is a purely vegetable preparation, without a particle of alcohol contained in it.

When a woman complains of backache, dizziness or pain—when everything looks black before her eyes—a dragging feeling, or bearing-down, with nervousness, she should turn to this "temperance" herbal tonic. It can be obtained in almost every drug store in the land and the ingredients are printed in plain English on the wrapper. Put up in tablets or liquid. Dr. Pierce, of Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., will send a trial size of the tablets for ten cents.

Does Backache Worry You?

Some Bedford People Have Learned How To Get Relief.

How many people suffer from an aching back? How few know the cause? If it hurts to stoop or lift—If you suffer sudden, darting pains If you are weak, lame and tired, Suspect your kidneys. Watch for nature's signal. The first sign may be headache or dizziness, Scanty, painful, or too frequent urination, Nervousness or a constant, dead-tired feeling. Avert the serious kidney diseases. Treat the weakened kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills. A remedy especially for sick kidneys.

Endorsed in Bedford by your friends and neighbors.

R. W. Grabill, Railroad Ave., Bedford says: "For some time I was troubled with my kidneys. There were bad pains in my back and on getting up in the morning I would ache all over. I had bad headaches, too. I started the use of Doan's Kidney Pills and soon all the headaches and pains in my back went away and I felt better in every way. On similar occasions since I have used Doan's and have found them to do the same good work."

Heat ALL Your House THROUGH ONE REGISTER

Yes, it's just as possible in your home as it has been in fifty thousand others. You, too, may have every room comfortable with balmy healthful heat, reaching every corner by Nature's method of circulation—and all through only one register! It isn't necessary to clutter up your house with pipes, overheat your cellar and incur big bills—not when you can get the

The Original Patented Pipeless Furnace

It can be set up in a day, without inconvenience to you, and will make your home so comfortable in the severest winter weather you will be well repaid.

Your house will be uniformly warm; your cellar will be just right for the storage of fruits and vegetables. Your fuel bill will be less than with stoves that heat only a part of your house.

HERE ARE THE REASONS

The Caloric is the Original Patented Pipeless Furnace—the result of the study of competent engineers to solve the heating problem in the most satisfactory way. That they have succeeded is proved by the fact that the number of Calorics sold on an absolute guarantee of satisfaction is three times greater than any other pipeless furnace. The cause of this satisfaction lies in the patented and exclusive principles that distinguish the Caloric from all others. It is not a pipe furnace provided with an extra casing, but a complete revolution in furnace building designed exclusively for pipeless heating.

Come In And See Us

We will show you what these principles are, and you will then see what Caloric quality means, why it always succeeds and why imitations cannot accomplish the same results. Then you will be in no danger of buying an inferior article, with all its disappointment in later months. Get a copy of the book "Progress," which tells the facts about pipeless heating. If you can't come in, write for it.

Governor Cuts State Expenses

Appropriation Bill Presented To Chief Executive Has More Than $1,000,000 Lopped off Increase Is $7,262,336.90

Short Items of Interest Gathered at the Various State Departments Touching Affairs of the People of the Commonwealth

Harrisburg.—The general appropriation bill approved by Governor Sproul carries a total of $53,199,556.80 for the two fiscal years and represents an increase in the expenditures necessary for the conduct of the state's business of $7,262,336.90 over 1917.

The appropriation to the public grounds and buildings contains an increase of over $1,000,000, while the Health Department receives an increase of $700,000. Auditor General Snyder, with the new machinery to collect more state taxes, is receiving an increase of from $465,200 to $915,200. The Sinking Fund Commission, which must look after the retirement and interest on the $50,000,000 road bond issue, is given $2,183,800.

Practically all of the departments have received substantial increases in their appropriations. The expenses of both the House and Senate have mounted hundreds of thousands of dollars and the increases allowed the judges of the state brings their allowances to over $500,000. The only big reduction is in the Department of Public Printing and Binding, where a campaign is to be waged against the use of high-priced stationery and high-priced paper for departmental records. The elimination of yearly departmental reports also reduces this appropriation.

Heads of departments were in conference with the governor during the week and when the measure came from his hands finally approved it contained cuts totaling $1,007,436.68 from the amount as passed by the legislature.

Governor Sproul did not make any startling cuts. The governor implies that he will veto the measure which provided for a state salary board and carried an appropriation of $100,000 and also for the Meakle bill which provided for a chief inspector for the board of moving picture censors at Pittsburgh.

This bill carried an appropriation of $120,000 for the Pittsburgh office. The governor also vetoed the item for salary for a deputy superintendent of public grounds and buildings and said the office could be dispensed with during the next two years.

Counties to Get Fines.

In an opinion to the State Game Commission, Deputy Attorney General Swope holds that fines collected for violation of the game bounty act must be paid to the county wherein the offense was committed. He says there is no authority to pay them to the Game Commission.

Filing Time Advanced.

As a result of the amendments to the election laws approved by the governor the time for filing nominating petitions in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth and with county commissioners is advanced one day.

Each One a Veteran.

Every man enlisted for the new troop of the state police is a veteran of Army or Navy service. They will take a special examination in the near future.

Refuses Thaw Extradition.

On the recommendation of Attorney General Schaffer Governor Sproul has declined to honor extradition papers for Harry K. Thaw, issued by New York State officials.

Escheat Bill Vetoed.

The bill providing for payment without escheat into the State Treasury of unclaimed moneys in the hands of depositories, fiduciaries and clerks of courts has been vetoed by Governor Sproul.

Forest Tracts Offered.

A dozen forest tracts ranging from 5,000 to 10,000 acres have been offered to the Game Commission for State game preserves under the new act of Assembly authorizing the commission to purchase lands for game preserves.
